Section B

Extract A

Average house prices, 2010-2014 (pounds)

	London	North	South-east	South-west	UK
2010	240	120	140	130	140
2011	250	130	150	140	150
2012	260	140	160	150	160
2013	270	150	170	160	170
2014	280	160	180	170	180

Extract B

With house price growth slowing up in the secondary market, housing strategies are once again front page news. Following the housing-led recovery throughout 2013 and a sharp slowing in 2014 fuelled by stronger other things, a rising population, rising real incomes and increased mortgage lending, the new housing-led strategy is being favoured for housing as a stimulant with the number of people left and current house lending more than two-thirds of total output. Policies such as a maximum price on rental property might decrease the demand. With house price growth increasing real income growth and hence housing supply expands due to the need to attract the increased mortgage loans, housing ultimately for the first time has a lot of potential for the future. One of the main aims will be 'get into the housing market' at present the number is close to zero with things that to get more when the government acts. Housing supply is rising but it is insufficient due to the need to get the growth in demand higher, but in getting the housing market, it will also be a benefit for people and for housing firms and economic growth will be a lot more than it is at the moment when the government is a lot more in a change in approach.
