Esco,2020-05-21 The desire to improve muscle function and prevent overuse injuries from exercise and throughout training has led to the development of various methods to aid recovery and track readiness to perform Ergogenic aids such as cold water immersion massage and dynamic recovery procedures may have positive effects but the results of the related research remain equivocal Furthermore novel interventions in this scenario like compression garments ice vests and photobiomodulation therapy are promising but need more evidence based data to support their effectiveness Similarly to properly monitor individual physical conditioning there is a growing interest toward unobtrusive measures to accurately represent physiological status during and or after exercise There are several techniques being used such as subjective ratings of well being heart rate monitoring hormonal and hematological profile assessments However more sensitive indexes like heart rate variability and muscle activation voluntary and or involuntary are arising as attractive alternatives that may delineate physical conditioning status and readiness to perform more precisely than the aforementioned measures The purpose of this Research Topic is to critically evaluate and summarize recent data from observational and intervention studies related to non invasive methods designed to promote recovery and objectively monitor training status Their association to physical performance and physiological recovery in athletes during training and competition is a major focus of this Topic      Urban Resilience, Livability, and Climate Adaptation Ilaria Pigliautile, Cristina Piselli, Hirushie Pramuditha Karunathilake, Claudia Fabiani, 2024-06-30 This book explores urban environments and their impact on resilience livability climate adaptation health and societal well being It provides interdisciplinary insights for fostering resilient livable and sustainable cities prioritizing well being and quality of life for all residents The book covers various topics and discusses innovative approaches for incorporating nature into urban planning It also examines the relationships between diet diversity food environments and transportation systems Spatial analysis of noise contour maps based on traffic speed is conducted along with an assessment of the impact of office environments on productivity The book explores the influence of streetscapes on anxiety envisions future cities from a youth perspective and identifies critical factors affecting the design and use of elevated urban spaces Daylighting performance in school expansions is evaluated and the concept of a livable city is examined Community adaptive capacity for climate resilient development is assessed through a case study analysis The livability of street vendors in different urban contexts is compared and alternative perspectives on restorative environments are presented The book investigates the impact of urban refugees on cities and reevaluates scientific theories for human well being oriented built environments It evaluates tourist satisfaction with urban railway systems and explores sport as a tool for healthy and sustainable cities      Epidemiology 101 Robert H.
