Television, and Adaptation Jay Telotte, Gerald Duchovnay, 2011-08-02 The book examines the difficulty of adapting from one screen medium to another by looking at both successful and unsuccessful efforts in the area of science fiction Those difficult efforts at moving from film to TV and from TV to film reveal much about the technologies involved and this highly technological genre as well Flashback Louis D. Giannetti, Scott Eyman, 2010 Consolidating major figures and film movements into their decade of greatest influence or prestige this no nonsense book offers a generously illustrated concise and very readable history of fiction movies with an emphasis on American cinema Eclectic in methodology and written in a plain English style that audiences can relate to it examines the full scope of traditional film history and criticism viewing film as both an art and an industry as it mirrors popular audience values social ideologies and historical epochs

Twentieth-Century Europe , 2014-02-03 Twentieth Century Europe A Brief History presents readers with a concise and accessible survey of the most significant themes and political events that shaped European history in the 20th and 21st centuries Features updates that include a new chapter that reviews major political and economic trends since 1989 and an extensively revised chapter that emphasizes the intellectual and cultural history of Europe since World War II Organized into brief chapters that are suitable for traditional courses or for classes in non traditional courses that allow for additional material selected by the professor Includes the addition of a variety of supplemental materials such as chronological timelines maps and illustrations Audience Genre Expectations in the Age of Digital Media Leo W. Jeffres, David J. Atkin, Kimberly A. Neuendorf, 2022-12-05 This volume bridges the divide between film and media studies scholarship by exploring audience expectations of film and TV genre in the age of digital streaming using qualitative thematic and quantitative data driven analyses Through four ground breaking surveys of audience members and content creators the authors have empirically determined what audiences expect of various genres the extent to which these definitions match those of scholars and critics and the overall variation and complexity of audience expectations in the age of media abundance They also examine audience habits and preferences drawing from both theory and original empirical analyses with a view toward the implications for the moving image in a rapidly changing media environment The book draws from the data to develop a number of new concepts including genre repertoire genre hybridity audience interest maximization and variety seeking and a new stage of genre development genre bending It is an ideal resource for students and scholars interested in the symbiotic relationship between audiences and the moving image products they consume as well as the way the current digital media environment has impacted our understanding of film and TV genres
