R. Jevons, 2022-06-01 First published in 1969 The Teaching of Science primarily deals with science teaching in secondary schools and universities but its searching discussion of criteria concerns all who have to do with education The concise but well documented treatments of the nature of the scientific process and of the social implications of science will be of interest to many scientists and especially useful for teachers of general studies Professor Jevons looks first at why we should teach science and thereby sheds light on the more immediately practical problems of how it should be done He thus does more than merely add to the already large volume of exhortation to make it more attractive and intellectually stimulating dispersed throughout Honolulu Chinatown was however a nucleus for Chinese business cultural and organizational activities More than two hundred organizations were formed by the migrants to provide mutual aid to respond to discrimination under the monarchy and later under American laws and to establish their status among other Chinese and Hawaii's multiethnic community Professor Glick skillfully describes the organizational network in all its subtlety He also examines the social apparatus of migrant existence families celebrations newspapers schools in short the way of life Using a sociological framework the author provides a fascinating account of the migrant settlers transformation from villagers bound by ancestral clan and tradition into participants in a mobile largely Westernized social order America, History and Life ,1995 Provides historical coverage of the United States and Canada from prehistory to the present Includes information abstracted from over 2 000 journals published worldwide
