within and beyond the walls of the schoolhouse Drawing thoughtfully on leadership theory current research and evidence based practice the author engages practitioners and scholars in a spirited and candid conversation about why partnerships with families and communities are needed in this era of rapid cultural change and soaring inequalities The book features scenarios from the field along with lessons learned on the pitfalls and possibilities embedded in the paradigm shifts The scenarios reveal how the partners leveraged their power to disrupt historical patterns of racism classism and nativism The book offers a compelling analysis of the power of school family and community partners to embrace dramatically different paradigms for schooling With anecdotes and illustrations the author invites readers to consider their role in engaging in meaningful partnerships that reflect the community s best hopes for the education of their children Her narratives offer a deeply rooted understanding of the possibilities and pitfalls of school family and community partnerships in a diversity of settings including urban rural and tribal schools and systems in the U S and abroad The chapters build hope and a realistic optimism that engaged partners can leverage their talents and resources and work together to bring best practices to scale for the benefit of children of diverse identities cultures and ethnicities Chapters contain strategies and tools to tackle the growing inequalities which keep far too many children on the margins of schooling and furthest from justice and equity Strategies include equity focused protocols structured questions for dialogue in virtual and face to face settings and resources for extended reflection The book may be useful for scholars in academic circles principal and teacher preparation providers novice and experienced educators and administrators and the allies school board members and elected officials who are invested in enriching the education and well being of school children and the families and communities they serve individuals from many different cultural backgrounds and ages are reshaping the way we see global leadership. These global leaders have to contend with a variety of transnational contexts that call for different leadership styles. This book assesses four of these styles: transactional, participatory, transformational, and directive, with representative case studies for each. It provides practical skills that global leaders must master in order to be more effective at the transnational level: cultivating a global mindset, developing intercultural communication, leveraging diversity and inclusion, and managing intercultural conflict. Global Leadership is valuable reading for educators in undergraduate and graduate leadership programs, practitioners involved in global for-profit and nonprofit organizations, and leadership educators interested in exploring the impact of technology on global leadership.
