Knowledge Intensive Business Services and Regional Competitiveness João J. M. Ferreira, Mário L. Raposo, Cristina I. Fernandes, Marcus Dejardin, 2016-04-20 Research interest in the service sector has boomed in recent years as deindustrialisation became entrenched Instead of being regarded as merely supplementary to traditional industry and manufacturing services have generated progressively rising levels of growth in developed economies while at the same time coming to be recognised as major drivers of innovation Among the factors which have helped service companies notch up swifter growth rates than all other sectors are the outsourcing of such services by other sectors including the development of information and communication technologies and changes to the regulatory legal and market frameworks as well as globalisation and internationalisation The result is a cluster of highly innovative firms which can loosely be grouped under the heading of Knowledge Intensive Business Services KIBS Knowledge Intensive Business Services and Regional Competitiveness charts the development of these firms and explores their success through four mutually linked parts KIBS and industrial dynamics KIBS and their context KIBS and their contribution to regional competitiveness and economic development and finally KIBS and public policy This book is suitable for researchers and policy makers interested in the rise of these influential actors and their influence on regional competitiveness Knowledge-Intensive Business Services Mark Freel, 2016-04-22 Over the last decade there has been an increasing amount of research on knowledge intensive business services KIBS and innovation This book brings together current thinking on this subject from geographic and territorial perspectives Researchers from across Europe and North America present contributions from a wide range of disciplinary approaches including management studies innovation studies and geography They explore areas such as innovation related cooperation between KIBS firms and their industrial partners how KIBS firms mediate business knowledge and the impact that KIBS make in local regional and international contexts The book offers a timely exploration of the role played by the geographic and institutional environment in the processes that link KIBS innovation and territory across different contexts

Exploring Knowledge-Intensive Business Services Roberto Grandinetti, Barbara Di Bernardo, 2012-05-08 Provides an updated view of knowledge management strategies of knowledge intensive business services KIBS by focusing on how those firms manage innovation in their value chains and at the territorial level Offers an original analysis of key processes of KIBS specializing in design professional firms and information technology Knowledge Intensive Business Services David Doloreux, 2008 Innovation and Employment in Services Johanna Nählinder, 2005-10-07 This is a study of innovation in Knowledge Intensive Business Services KIBS and the impact innovation has on employment The thesis relies on theories within the fields of innovation in services in particular KIBS and innovation and employment taking as its point of departure the taxonomy of product and process innovation The thesis is based on a discussion of innovation in services with a focus on how innovation in services may be understood and delineated A long discussion is dedicated to the taxonomy of product and process innovation and the extent to which these concepts may be applicable to innovation in services The thesis also scrutinises the concept of KIBS and how this can be defined It further discusses features commonly associated with KIBS firms The thesis is also rooted in the broader issue of innovation as a creator and destroyer of employment and makes a contribution in applying these issues to service sectors The empirical part of the thesis builds on a database compiled for the research project comprised of 967 Swedish KIBS firms The database covers issues of innovation employment and characteristics of the firm The findings indicate that innovation was common in Swedish KIBS firms and that innovations often had an impact on employment However the thesis did not detect a straightforward relation between type of innovation technological process innovation organisational process innovation goods product innovation and service product innovation and the impact on employment Explanations other than type of innovation have to be considered to analyse the impact of innovation on employment The thesis further suggests that although innovation in KIBS is common innovation itself is difficult to conceptualise and delineate

Knowledge Intensive Business Services Marcela Miozzo,Damian Grimshaw,2006-01-01 The book provides convincing findings against the hypothesis of KIBS as a factor of cognitive convergence or loss of diversity within our economies On the contrary KIBS are active agents of divergence and there is no universal pattern of the nature and the evolution of KIBS but national varieties It also shows that in order to well understand the inter organizational collaboration between KIBS and their clients and more generally KIBS dynamics and their performance transaction cost economies and agent theory should be complemented by other perspectives such as knowledge based approaches network theories modularity theories etc This book which is strongly oriented towards both policy and theoretical questions is a valuable addition to a body of literature which is still too scarce No doubt that it will stimulate further research in this field It is undoubtedly a high level knowledge intensive service provision about knowledge intensive business services Fa z Gallouj University of Lille France This book focuses on the development of Knowledge Intensive Business Services KIBS and the associated market characteristics and organisational forms It brings together reputed scholars from a mix of disciplines to explore the nature and evolution of a range of Knowledge Intensive Business Services Through an examination of KIBS sectors such as computer services management consultancy and R D services the contributions in this book argue that the evolution of KIBS is strongly associated with new inter organizational forms and that different country institutions shape the characteristics of these organisational forms The book provides a strong contribution to theory and empirical evidence on fast growing KIBS and their implications for innovation The book will be of interest to final year undergraduates and postgraduate students and scholars in the field of innovation studies organisation studies and comparative business systems across Europe

Intensive Business Services KIBS are widely argued to be important actors in innovation systems They are active both innovating themselves and by providing their clients with important knowledge and learning opportunities This study uses survey data to investigate the mechanisms of knowledge transfer and innovativeness improvement through the provision of KIBS The empirical core of the paper is a set of Russian surveys of KIBS and their clients KIBS are a fairly new phenomenon in Russia so this provides an opportunity to contrast KIBS supplier client relationships featuring more and less experienced customers Many of the KIBS firms services are highly tailored to customer specificities and we consider how far this is minor customisation and how far novel products and thus potentially product innovations are involved These services typically involve KIBS consumers into a coproduction process where both the formal supplier and the formal user of the service are engaged together in service production Knowledge transfers through learning by doing in such cases affect customers propensity to innovate and improve their absorptive capacity The paper concludes that the generation of innovations through KIBS may well be a self sustaining process In this process service providers are incentivised to engage in service innovations by more innovative customers demand for highly individualised services In turn the process stimulates the innovativeness of customers as they engage in learning by doing through coproduction
