Standards of Practice in Construction Specifying Dennis J. Hall, Nina M. Giglio, 2013-05-22 Construction

Specifications provide critical information necessary to convey the design intent of the Architect and the legally enforceable contract requirements. Many factors must be considered by the Architect in the development of written construction documents including project delivery method, project ownership, sustainability, and code requirements. This companion guide to the 2013 AIA National Convention Presentation Architect's Guide to Construction Specifications provides excerpts from important industry publications regarding the preparation of construction documents. Material was carefully selected from the following books: CSI Construction Specifications Practice Guide, Architect's Guide to the US National CAD Standard, CSI Construction Contract Administration Practice Guide, Architect's Handbook of Professional Practice 14e. Additional excerpts have been provided from CSI Formats to provide an overview of organizational standards for Specifications including MasterFormat, SectionFormat, PageFormat, and PPDFFormat. Added material includes examples for comment document types which can also be used as templates: Outline Specification, Short Form Specification, Certification and Seals Page, and Addendum. This is the only book that is an essential companion to the presentation or can stand alone as a necessary reference providing users ready access to key understanding of the methods of specifying, organizing structures for building information, and other components that should be considered in the preparation of a project manual. , Standards Activities of Organizations in the United States Robert B. Auravana Habitat System Auravana, 2022-07-12 This publication is the Habitat System for a community type society. A habitat is a city town is a material operational service environment where humans live and have their needs fulfilled. It is a service composed of interacting material objects. This habitat system standard identifies the services, technologies, components, and processes that compose a habitat service system. A habitat service system encodes and expresses humanity's decided material fulfillment services. When a decision resolves into a service, that service is specified to exist in the habitat system. Different configurations of a habitat lead to different levels and qualities of fulfillment. The coherent integration and open visualization of the habitat system is important for human requirements to be met at the local and global level through scientific planning. This standard represents the encoding of decisions into a global habitat service system with many local configurations of habitat that act together as a fulfillment platform for the whole community population. The visualization and simulation of humanity's interconnected habitat systems is essential for maintaining a set of complex fulfillment oriented constructions and operations that meet human fulfillment requirements. This publication details what has been, what is, and what could be constructed in the material environment. It depicts through language and symbols visualization and simulation a habitat service environment consisting of life technology and exploratory support services. For anything that is to be constructed in the material system, there is a written part, a drawing part, and a simulation part, which is also how the material system is subdivided. Further, all habitats are designed and operated by means of master planning; they all have a master plan. Construction and Evaluation (CE) ARE 5
