

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist who believes that African-Americans are inferior and should not be allowed to fight in the military. However, as he spends more time with the 54th Massachusetts, he begins to see their courage and sacrifice, and his attitude changes. He becomes more respectful and eventually treats them as equals.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? What about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background?

The 54th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry is a diverse group of men from different backgrounds. Some are former slaves, some are free-born, and some are from the South. They have different levels of education and different experiences of slavery. This diversity reflects the broader experience of African-Americans in 19th-century America.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

At first, the white soldiers in the 54th look down on the black soldiers. They see them as inferior and believe that they are not capable of fighting. However, as the 54th proves their courage and sacrifice, the white soldiers' attitudes change. They begin to respect the black soldiers and see them as equals.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, blacks were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were paid less than whites, they were given less food and shelter, and they were often treated with disrespect. However, they were given the same training and fought the same battles as whites.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender is significant because it shows his commitment to the cause of African-American freedom. He knows that the odds are against him, but he believes that it is worth fighting for.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings?/thoughts come over you left with?

The movie ends with the 54th being sent back to the front lines. This is a disappointing ending for many viewers, but it is also a realistic one. The movie shows the courage and sacrifice of the 54th, but it also shows the limitations of the Union army at that time. The movie is a powerful statement about the struggle for African-American freedom.
