OECD Reviews of Evaluation and Assessment in Education: Georgia Li Richard Ruochen, Kitchen Hannah, George Bert, Richardson Mary, Fordham Elizabeth, 2019-12-19 This review developed in partnership with UNICEF provides Georgia with recommendations to strengthen its evaluation and assessment system to focus on helping students learn It will be of interest to countries that wish to strengthen their own evaluation and assessment systems and in turn improve educational outcomes

Conflicts in History Education in Europe Ander Delgado, Andrew Mycock, 2023-07-01 The heightened resonance of identity driven politics in many states across twenty first century Europe emphasizes the critical role of history in shaping public contestation of the idea of the nation and accordant manifestations of nationalism and national identity How the past is interpreted or what and how is remembered has proven increasingly febrile contentious and divisive Debates about history have gone beyond academia and have permeated and polarised politics and society in many European countries Intense debate and dispute about national history and culture has often focused on the history teaching in schools colleges and universities According to the aforementioned it is evident that the teaching of history in the classroom is a relevant topic within the educational system For this reason it is not surprising that many times the choice of what kind of history to teach becomes a controversial topic The existence in a given society of different visions about the nation or the various responses proposed to face the social challenges existing in it immigration independence nationalisms can turn the teaching of history into a debated and controversial topic Logically depending on the specific political context of each country this debate can acquire different developments and characteristics The school is not an institution isolated from its socio political context In fact both areas constantly interact Therefore this book proposes an approach to this topic that tries to connect the specific political context of different countries with the debates about education and history teaching from 1990 until the present It deals with the extent to which the social and political context affects the history teaching practice developed in the classrooms through the decisions made on the official curricula and textbooks Emphasizing this connection between both aspects is one of the strengths of this book That is the reason why this book proposes an approach to that reality from diverse points of view and show the different materializations observed in this area in the studied cases. The chapters of this volume allow us to verify this heterogeneous reality and help enrich our knowledge on this broad and interesting topic.

International Handbook on Education in Southeast Asia Lorraine Pe Symaco, Martin Hayden, 2021-12-23

This International Handbook provides a detailed account of the education systems of 11 Southeast Asian nations including Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao People's Democratic Republic, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Timor-Leste, and Vietnam. It presents a systematic sector-by-sector explanation of how these national education systems deliver educational services and respond to national and international issues and challenges. With 56 chapters, the International Handbook is the region's most comprehensive educational reference source. In the first of its chapters, the editors introduce the regional context and draw attention to the distinctive characteristics of each of the 11 systems. Southeast Asia, representing 8.5% of the world's population, is as dynamic as it is diverse. The International Handbook charts progress and establishes a benchmark for documenting future developments. It also provides a stepping-off point for more detailed investigations of decision-making processes and outcomes across the 11 national education systems.

Globalisation and National Identity in History Textbooks Joseph Zajda, 2017-07-06

Globalisation and National Identity in History Textbooks: The Russian Federation, the 16th book in the 24-volume book series Globalisation, Comparative Education and Policy Research, discusses trends in dominant discourses of identity politics and nation building in school history textbooks in the Russian Federation (RF). The book addresses one of the most profound examples of the re-writing of history following a geo-political change. Various book chapters examine debates pertaining to national identity, patriotism, and the nation building process. The book discusses the way in which a new sense of patriotism and nationalism is documented in prescribed Russian history textbooks and in the Russian media debate on history textbooks. It explores the ambivalent and problematic relationship between the state, globalisation, and the construction of cultural identity in prescribed school history textbooks. By focusing on ideology, identity politics, and nation building, the book examines history teachers' responses to the content of history textbooks and how teachers depict key moments in modern Russian history. This book is an essential sourcebook of ideas for researchers, practitioners, and policymakers in the fields of globalisation and history education. It provides timely information on history teachers' attitudes towards historical knowledge and historical understanding in prescribed Russian history textbooks.

Social Studies Education in South and South East Asian Contexts Kerry J Kennedy, 2021-07-22 The education of young people is context bound This edited volume explores the contexts that characterise South and South East Asia and their influence on social studies education There is not a single context across this broad geographical expanse rather different religions different political systems and different values exert influences that create distinctive programmes that characterise different countries Yet there are also commonalities such as the post colonial nature of most of the countries portrayed in this book determined efforts at establishing new national communities and multiple value systems that lead to distinctive local priorities There are also voices of resistance in these chapters recognising the realities of local contexts but also recognising the need for change Social studies education in these contexts may well be descended from its origins in North America but in South and South Asian contexts it has taken on new purposes new forms and new values Education researchers policymakers and postgraduate students in comparative education will find the volume useful in its exploration and comparison of the social studies curricular and reforms that shaped them

Myanmar's Education Reforms Marie Lall, 2020-11-02 This book reviews the state of education in Myanmar over the past decade and a half as the country is undergoing profound albeit incomplete transformation Set within the context of Myanmar's peace process and the wider reforms since 2012 Marie Lall's analysis of education policy and practice serves as a case study on how the reform programme has evolved Drawing on over 15 years of field research carried out across Myanmar the book offers a cohesive inquiry into government and non government education sectors the reform process and how the transition has played out across schools universities and wider society It casts scrutiny on changes in basic education the alternative monastic education higher education and teacher education and engages with issues of ethnic education and the debate on the role of language and the local curriculum as part of the peace process In so doing it gives voice to those most affected by the changing landscape of Myanmar's education and wider reform process the students and parents of all ethnic backgrounds teachers teacher trainees and university staff that are rarely heard

Data for Learning World Bank Group, 2017-09-21 Data are a crucial ingredient in any successful education system but building and sustaining a data system are challenging tasks Many countries around the world have spent significant resources but still struggle to accomplish a functioning Education Management Information System EMIS On the other hand countries that have created successful systems are harnessing the power of data to improve education outcomes Increasingly EMISs are moving away from using data narrowly for counting students and schools Instead they use data to drive system wide innovations accountability professionalization and most important quality and learning This broader use of data also benefits classroom instruction and support at schools An effective data system ensures that education cycles from preschool to tertiary are aligned and that the education system is monitored so it can achieve its ultimate goal producing graduates able to successfully transition into the labor market and contribute to the overall national economy Data for Learning Building a Smart Education Data System and its forthcoming companion volume shed light on challenges in building a data system and provide actionable direction on how to navigate the complex issues associated with education data for better learning outcomes and beyond Data for Learning details the key ingredients of successful data systems including tangible examples common pitfalls and good practices It is a resource for policy makers working to craft the vision and strategic road map of an EMIS as well as a handbook to assist teams and decision makers in avoiding common mistakes It is designed to provide the how to and to guide countries at various stages of EMIS deployment A forthcoming companion volume will focus on digging deeper into the practical applications of education data systems by various user groups in different settings Education Reform and Internationalisation David
