International Security in the Asia-Pacific Alan Chong,2017-09-13 This volume argues that international security in the Asia Pacific lends itself to contradictory analyses of centrifugal and centripetal trends Transitional polycentrism is intrinsically awkward as a description of the security of states and their populations it implies the loosening of state control and the emergence of newly asserted authority by mixed constellations of intergovernmental organizations and non state actors It implies a competition of agendas threats to the integrity of borders and human security threats such as natural disasters airliner crashes and displacement by man made pollution and food scarcity Conversely polycentrism could also imply a return to a more neo realist oriented international order where great powers ignore ASEAN and steer regional order according to their perceived interests and relative military superiority This book embraces these contradictory trends as a foundation of analysis and accepts that disorder can also be re described from the perspective of studied detachment as polycentric order

Developing Strategies for the Modern International Airport Alan Williams,2016-04-22 Developing Strategies for the Modern International Airport identifies and analyses the primary issues facing the modern international airport and their role in a global economy Based on the premise that the aviation industry has a primary and decisive role in the economic and social development of the modern international economy this book examines the modern international airport and its process of integration into the larger global economy As the integration of the aviation industry within the larger context of international business grows there are an increasing number of important airport sites world wide which are exhibiting the characteristics of what has been called by one authority an aerotropolis where major airports are integrated into the wider multi business dynamics of cities such as Shanghai or Beijing Such pioneering developments are indicative of this region and bring with them a host of new issues and challenges for economic development While international projections of the growth in demand for aviation services suggest that the key region for future expansion will be the ASEAN group of countries there are marked differences between countries in their overall plans for viable economic development As a result the essential raising of funding required for international airport development must compete against other potential development projects all trying to attract the attention of national policy makers
