Millions Saved: Proven Successes in Global Health

Introduction

What is Millions Saved? This initiative is a compilation of 20 case studies that describe major successes in global health, each of which met the following selection criteria:

- large-scale (national, regional or global)
- having a duration of at least five years
- addressing a major health condition in the developing world
- using a cost-effective intervention; and
- having a major positive impact on health

For each of the cases, data exist – and are highlighted in the book – so that the change in health status can be attributed to the intervention or program, rather than to broad economic and social trends. In addition to the case studies, the book includes an introductory essay that draws out the common elements across the cases, which can be useful for design and evaluation of programs in the future.

In 2004, 17 original success cases were compiled in Millions Saved: Proven Successes in Global Health (Center for Global Development) written by Ruth Levine and the What Works Working Group (a panel of 15 eminent experts in global health, public policy and development economics), with Molly Kinder. An updated and expanded edition, Case Studies in Global Health: Millions Saved (Jones and Bartlett), was published in 2007 as a case book accompanying an undergraduate global health textbook by Richard Skolnik.

The authors of the original book collaborated with the Disease Control Priorities Project of the US National Institutes of Health, tapping into the expertise of more than 300 leading authorities on diseases, interventions and health systems. The Millions Saved initiative is housed at the Center for Global Development, a non-partisan think tank in Washington DC that focuses on the question of how the policies of rich countries affect the prospects of the developing world.

Instructor Guide Overview: This guide is intended to help instructors optimize the use of the Millions Saved case studies in the classroom. It is written for instructors leading introductory classes in international health, either at the undergraduate or graduate level. Little previous knowledge of global health issues is assumed, although a basic understanding
