Advances in Cryptology G.R. Blakely,D. Chaum,2003-05-16 Recently there has been a lot of interest in provably good pseudo random number generators lo 4 14 31 These cryptographically secure generators are good in the sense that they pass all probabilistic polynomial time statistical tests However despite these nice properties the secure generators known so far suffer from the han cap of being ineifiicient the most efficient of these take  $n^2$  steps one modular multip cation  $n$  being the length of the seed to generate one bit Pseudc random number g erators that are currently used in practice output  $n$  bits per multiplication  $n^2$  steps An important open problem was to output even two bits on each multiplication in a cryptographically secure way This problem was stated by Blum Blum Shub 3 in the context of their  $z^2 \bmod N$  generator They further ask how many bits can be o put per multiplication maintaining cryptographic security In this paper we state a simple condition the XOR Condition and show that any generator satisfying this condition can output  $\log n$  bits on each multiplication We show that the XOR Condition is satisfied by the lop least significant bits of the  $z^2 \bmod N$  generator The security of the  $z^2 \bmod N$  generator was based on Quadratic Residu ity 3 This generator is an example of a Trapdoor Generator 13 and its trapdoor properties have been used in protocol design We strengthen the security of this gene tor by proving it as hard as factoring
