Research for Educational Change Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice. Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education, it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching, the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident. The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice. In the first part of the book, four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom. In the second part, each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms. Combining two discourses, that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice, the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education, educational research and classroom practices. This book will be key reading for postgraduates, researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education, education research, teacher education and classroom practice. It will also appeal to teacher educators, practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research.

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy. The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans, but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages. Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools, which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools. The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully. The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience.

Schooling in Sub-Saharan Africa Clive Harber, 2017-07-12 This book is a comprehensive text for those interested in formal education in sub-Saharan Africa. It provides a thought-provoking overview of the key educational ideas, themes and issues facing schooling in Africa today by drawing on a wide literature to examine evidence concerning both educational policy and the working realities of primary and secondary schools in Africa. Based on the author's forty years of experience in researching and publishing on education in Africa, it takes a balanced but critical approach to analysing education in Africa and discusses both positive and negative patterns across the region as well as identifying differences between and within countries. The book examines major questions of educational provision structure content and process but does so in a way that raises challenging questions about gender inequality violence authoritarianism and democracy in education as well the fundamental question of whether education is achieving its desired outcomes It will be of great interest to students and researchers working in the fields of comparative and international education education and international development African education African studies and development studies

How The New Education Establishment Betrayed The World's Poorest Children Joanna Härmä,2025-01-23 This book tells the real story of education in low income countries and shows why ordinary people are making extreme sacrifices to reject free public schools in favor of low quality private schools both legal and illegal Based on the author's experience of working in the UN system for a child rights NGO in New Delhi and working on aid projects and with private foundations in Africa and South Asia Joanna Harma reveals how public education systems got to their current state of dysfunction She argues that the international aid community and United Nations bodies such as UNESCO and UNICEF have facilitated the decline in public education and argues that young children are being let down by education systems and policy from the local to the international Harma looks at this issue from the perspectives of various stakeholders including international human rights workers parents the companies who set up the schools policy makers and NGO workers The book includes a preface from Ben Phillips Director of Communications at The Joint United Nations Programme on HIV AIDS UNAIDS
