Dead Tree Media Michael Stamm, 2018-10-16 A deep and timely account of how American newspapers were produced and distributed on paper Winner of the Best Book in Canadian Business History by the Canadian Business History Association Popular assessments of printed newspapers have become so grim that some have taken to calling them dead tree media as a way of invoking the medium's imminent demise There is a literal truth hidden in this dismissive expression printed newspapers really are material goods made from trees And throughout the twentieth century the overwhelming majority of trees cut down in the service of printing newspapers in the United States came from Canada In Dead Tree Media Michael Stamm reveals the international history of the commodity chains connecting Canadian trees and US readers Drawing on newly available corporate documents and research in archives across North America Stamm offers a sophisticated rethinking of the material history of the printed newspaper Tracing its industrial production from the forest to the newsstand he provides an account of the obscure and often hidden labor involved in this manufacturing process by showing how it was driven by not only publishers and journalists but also lumberjacks paper mill workers policymakers chemists and urban and regional planners Stamm describes the 1911 shift in tariff policy that gave US publishers duty free access to Canadian newsprint providing a tremendous boost to Canadian paper manufacturers and a significant subsidy to American newspaper publishers He also explains how Canada attracted massive American foreign investment in paper mills around the same time that US publishers were able to gain greater access to Canada's vast spruce forests Focusing particularly on the Chicago Tribune Stamm provides a new history of the rise and fall of both the mass circulation printed newspaper and the particular kind of corporation in the newspaper business that had shaped many aspects of the cultural political and even physical landscape of North America For those seeking to understand the travails of the contemporary newspaper business Dead Tree Media is essential reading The Marketisation of Higher Education John D. the City Simon Black,2020 The transformation of child care after welfare reform in New York City and the struggle against that transformation is a largely untold story In the decade following welfare reform despite increases in child care funding there was little growth in New York s unionized center based child care system and no attempt to make this system more responsive to the needs of working mothers As the city delivered child care services on the cheap relying on non union home child care providers welfare rights organizations community legal clinics child care advocates low income community groups activist mothers and labor unions organized to demand fair solutions to the child care crisis that addressed poor single mothers need for quality affordable child care as well as child care providers need for decent work and pay Social Reproduction and the City tells this story linking welfare reform to feminist research and activism around the crisis of care social reproduction and the neoliberal city At a theoretical level Simon Black s history of this era presents a feminist political economy of the urban welfare regime applying a social reproduction lens to processes of urban neoliberalization and an urban lens to feminist analyses of welfare state restructuring and resistance Feminist political economy and feminist welfare state scholarship have not focused on the urban as a scale of analysis and critical approaches to urban neoliberalism often fail to address questions of social reproduction To address these unexplored areas Black unpacks the urban as a contested site of welfare state restructuring and examines the escalating crisis in social reproduction He lays bare the aftermath of the welfare to work agenda of the Giuliani administration in New York City on child care and the resistance to policies that deepened race class and gender inequities Property and Human Rights in a Global Context Ting Xu,Jean
