Principles and guidelines for social impact assessment in the USA

The Interorganizational Committee on Principles and Guidelines for Social Impact Assessment

The 2003 version of Principles and Guidelines for Social Impact Assessment (SIA) in the USA provides guidance for the conduct of SIA within the context of the US National Environmental Policy Act of 1970. Guidelines are integrated within six principles focusing on: understanding of local and regional settings; dealing with the key elements of the human environment; using appropriate methods and assumptions; providing quality information for decision making; ensuring that environmental justice issues are addressed; and establishing mechanisms for evaluation/monitoring and mitigation. A social impact assessment model is outlined followed by suggested social impact assessment variables. The document concludes with the detailed steps in the SIA process.

Keywords: social impact assessment; principles; guidelines; steps; SIA variables; SIA model

The Committee was:¹ *Rebel J Burdge, Professor of Sociology and Environmental Studies, Western Washington University, Bellingham; Susan Charnley, Social Scientist, Forest Experiment Station, USDA, Forest Service, Portland, Oregon; Michael Downs, Social Scientist, ED&W, San Diego, CA; *Kurt Finnsrud, Professor of Sociology, University of Maryland, College Park; *Bill Freudenburg, Professor of Environmental Studies, University of California at Santa Barbara; *Peter Fricke, Social Anthropologist, National Marine Fisheries Service, Silver Springs, Maryland; *Bob Gramling, Professor of Sociology, University of Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette; Michael Smith, Natural Resources Planning, Department of Environmental and Natural Resource Sciences, Humboldt State University, Arcata, California; Brenda C Kragh, Social Science Analyst, FHWA, Office of Planning, Washington, DC; *Richard Stoffle, Professor of Anthropology, Bureau Applied Research, University of Arizona, Tucson; *James G Thompson, Professor of Rural Sociology, Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics, University of Wyoming, Laramie; *Clary Williams, St Marys College, St Marys City, Maryland and the Clark Group, Washington, DC.

SINCE PASSAGE OF the US National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1970, environmental impact assessment has become the key component of environmental planning and decision making in the United States. Agency planners and decision makers have recognized a need for better understanding of the social consequences of policies, plans, programs and projects (PPPPs).

In response to this need, a group of social scientists formed the Interorganizational Committee on Guidelines and Principles for Social Impact Assessment¹ (SIA) in 1992, with the purpose of outlining a set of guidelines and principles that would assist public- and private-sector agencies and organizations to fulfill their obligations under the NEPA, related authorities and agency mandates (BOGIP, 1993). This monograph is the decade update of the original.

In the 2003 version, we continue to define social impact assessment in terms of efforts to assess, appraise or estimate, in advance, the social consequences that are likely to follow from proposed actions. These include: specific government or private projects, such as construction of buildings, siting power generation facilities, large transportation projects, managing natural resources, fish and wildlife; and preserving or leasing large tracts of land and the adoption of new policies and resulting plans

Box 1. Social impacts

By social impacts we mean the consequences to human populations of any public or private actions—that alter the ways in which people live, work, play, relate to one another, organize to meet their needs and generally cope as members of society. The term also includes cultural impacts involving changes to the norms, values, and beliefs that guide and rationalize their cognition of themselves and their society.
