QUESTION

1. Which of the following is a characteristic of a good research question?

A. It is broad and general.

B. It is specific and focused.

C. It is easy to answer.

D. It is based on a hunch.

ANSWER

B. It is specific and focused.

EXPLANATION

A good research question is one that is specific and focused. It should be clear, concise, and to the point. It should also be something that you can actually answer through research. A broad and general question is too vague, and an easy question is not worth researching. A hunch is not a research question.
