OPPOSITE

It is important to get consent before touching the patient (see Section 1.2). The initial assessment should be completed by touching as much of the patient as is necessary in the circumstances to facilitate full risk for the examination. To obtain the patient's dignity, it is often better to undertake a supervised examination through the patient while awaiting a further examination in the privacy of the ambulance. Clinical observation, when with consent in place, will demonstrate deficiencies due to fractures or evidence of bleeding.

It also important to recognise the effect that the environment can have on the patient, particularly if it is cold, raining, noisy and wet. The provider should seek to minimise the effect of the environment on the patient, for example, by keeping the patient protected from the elements.

Remember to repeat the primary survey regularly.

FRAGILE

The advice offered in this section relates to a multiple casualty situation but does not extend to involvement in a formal major incident declared by one or more of the emergency services.

The word fragile, derived from the French verb 'to hurt'. The purpose of fragile in the emergency care situation is to provide the early needs of patients in patient situations where the emergency medical response is slow.

The result of this 'fragile' process is that the most 'fragile' were before those with less serious or

VENTILATION SUPPORT (BAG-VALVE-MASK)

(Note: for providers, this is a two-man technique)

Effective cooperation of the mask with the patient and removal of carbon dioxide by automatic or fully controlled through a good seal, rhythm and depth of breathing. By using a technique an airway mask provides between 12 and 20 litres per minute with sufficient volume to make the chest rise.

In some patients, lying on the ground, the chest does not often move. It is the abdominal muscles that are doing the work. The adequacy of this form of breathing needs to be further supported by feeling for airflow from the mouth, as there may be insufficient volume flowing, requiring modifications continue.

When a patient fails to breathe, or is not breathing, it may be necessary to
