DEPARTMENT : LINGUISTICS, LANGUAGES AND LITERATURE UNIT CODE: ALI 805 UNIT TITLE: LITERATURE AND JOURNALISM TASK: Difference between Literature and Journalism PRESENTED BY: JULIE E. OGONYA REG. NO. : PG/MA/063/2009 PRESENTED TO: DR. KITCHE MAGAK DATE: NOVEMBER, 2009. MASENO INTRODUCTION Literature and journalism are two genres that are interrelated and intertwined because literature borrows heavily from journalism and journalism borrows heavily from literature as well. Sometimes it gets problematic distinguishing literature from journalism, more so with the emergence of narrative journalism.

According to Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary, literature refers to pieces of writing that are valued as works of art, especially novels, plays and poems (in contrast to technical books and newspapers, magazines, etc.). The same dictionary defines journalism as the work of collecting and writing news stories for newspapers, magazines, radio or television. In this paper, an attempt is going to be made to show the differences between literature and journalism. Differences between Literature and Journalism.

The difference between literature and journalism can be seen from the definitions of the two genres where literature is defined as "pieces of writing that are valued as works of art". Art refers to "the use of imagination to express ideas or feelings" (Hornby, 2005). The key word is imagination. This means that in literature, language is used creatively with a lot of imagination in expressing ideas. Literature has been described as a mirror of the society and it reflects the happenings in that society. The reflections more often than not depend on the type of the mirror, whether concave or convex.

Consequently, literature can distort reality. Journalism, "the work of collecting and writing news stories for newspapers, magazines, radio or television", on the other hand, is a picture of the society. What we see is what we get since journalism is reportage. Mikkel Hvid has provided some guidelines on the difference between journalism and literature. In this paper most of the differences used will be from a paper he presented entitled Fiction, Facts and Storytelling and Roy Peter Clarke's essay : Between Fact and Fiction: Navigating Treacherous Waters.

First, Hvid says that "the difference between literature and journalism is characterized by more than just the difference between fact and fiction. The two genres have different expressions, different criteria for the truth and relevance and different priorities. Journalism must be true but writers of fiction are allowed to lie". In literature, the diction is characterized by the use of literary techniques like imagery, personification, irony, juxtaposition, sarcasm, similes and so on. These are used to make the message being communicated to...

Literary Journalism Essays:

Literary Journalism Norman Sims, Mark Kramer, 1995-05-23 Some of the best and most original prose in America today is being written by literary journalists. Memoirs and personal essays, profiles, science and nature reportage, travel writing—literary journalists are working in all of these forms with artful styles and fresh approaches. In Literary Journalism, editors Norman Sims and Mark Kramer have collected the finest examples of literary journalism from both the masters of the genre who have been working for decades and the new voices freshly arrived on the national scene. The fifteen essays gathered here include John McPhee's account of the battle between army engineers and the lower Mississippi River; Susan Orlean's brilliant portrait of the private imaginative world of a ten-year-old boy; Tracy Kidder's moving description of life in a nursing home; Ted Conover's wild journey in an African truck convoy while investigating the spread of AIDS; Richard Preston's bright piece about two shy Russian mathematicians who live in Manhattan and search for order in a random universe; Joseph Mitchell's classic essay on the rivermen of Edgewater, New Jersey. And nine more fascinating pieces of the nation's best new writing. In the last decade, this unique form of writing has grown exuberantly, and now in Literary Journalism we celebrate fifteen of our most dazzling writers as they work with great vitality and astonishing variety. True Stories Norman

Sims, Medill School of Journalism, 2007 Journalism in the twentieth century was marked by the rise of literary journalism. Sims traces more than a century of its history, examining the cultural connections, competing journalistic schools of thought, and innovative writers that have given literary journalism its power. Seminal examples of the genre provide ample context and background for the study of this style of journalism. Artful Journalism Walt Harrington, 2015-09-29 Artful Journalism is a must-read for journalism professors and students, working professionals who want to enhance their storytelling skills, readers, and literary journalism scholars who understand the immutable place of truth in even the most artful examples of journalism. For four decades, Walt Harrington has done memorable stories and books that are still studied and admired by those who pursue the kind of journalism that aims to engage the heart as well as the mind. A long-time Washington Post Magazine writer who became a journalism professor at the University of Illinois, Harrington has been a leading voice in the field of long-form storytelling. Artful Journalism collects for the first time his insightful and evocative essays that have inspired and informed several generations of writers who aspire to do journalism that captures the feeling of literature while adhering to traditional journalistic standards of fairness, balance, and accuracy. Artful Journalism also includes essays by two of America's prominent young journalists, Wright Thompson and Justin Heckert, whose work has been inspired and shaped by Harrington's principles.

Real Life Writings in American Literary Journalism: a Narratological Study Gurpreet Kaur, 2015-07-24 This referential collection of essays is an important guide to the emergence and development of literary journalism through the centuries The book begins with the defining of genres literature and journalism which blur the lines between them It also gives an insight into the theories of narratology Some practitioners included in this book are great American writers like John Hersey Truman Capote Norman Mailer and Don DeLillo These literary journalists bring to life both major as well trivial issues of the society New journalists coalesce all the fictional techniques with the journalistic methods to present a unique and sophisticated style which requires extensive research and even more careful reporting than done in the typical news articles The book closes with the concluding thoughts followed by list of works cited

Women in American Journalism Jan Whitt, 2024-04-22 In this volume Jan Whitt tells the stories of women who have been overlooked in journalism history offering an important corrective to scholarship that narrowly focuses on the deeds of men like Joseph Pulitzer and William Randolph Hearst She shows how numerous women broadened the editorial scope of newspapers and journals transformed women's professional roles used journalism as a training ground for major literary works and led breakthroughs in lesbian and alternative presses Whitt explores the lives of women reporters who achieved significant historical recognition such as Ida Tarbell and Ida Wells Barnett Investigating the often blurry boundary between journalism and literature she explains how this fluid distinction has actually limited how many scholars perceive the contributions of authors such as Joan Didion and Susan Orlean Whitt also highlights the work of important novelists including Willa Cather Katherine Anne Porter and Eudora Welty to shed light on how their work as journalists informed their highly successful fiction This study also offers a survey of contributions women have made to the alternative presses including the environmental press and civil rights activism Whitt examines important figures in the early feminist press such as Caroline Churchill editor and reporter for Denver's Queen Bee and Betty Wilkins of Kansas City's Call Finally through newsletters newspapers magazines and journals she traces the history of the lesbian press and points out the ways in which it indicates that the alternative press is thriving
