2. Support with

Language, Tone, Content

The author gives the impression that Hitler was...

The language that the author uses shows quite clearly that he believes (state impression). The words _____ and _____ are used which suggests, connotes, implies, portrays, conveys, emphasises...

As a result, the overall tone of this extract is critical, humorous, sarcastic.

The content the author has selected also contributes to the impression that (state impression) because they discuss the events of X and Y which show Hitler to be _____. However, they also deliberately leave out information on _____ as this would undermine, contrast, contradict their overall impression/opinion.

* Restating the impression shows the examiner that you are focused and you have not lost your train of thought or gone off topic. It is the equivalent to linking back to the question in your PEEL paragraphs for your essay Q.

Hitler's oratory skill was the main reason for his rise to power. How far do you agree with this statement? (16)

Introduction

There were a number of reasons for Hitler's rise to power. At the time Germany existed in a climate of fear, poverty and extreme vulnerability after the harsh terms of the Treaty of Versailles and the shock on impact of the wall street crash, Hitler was able to capitalise on these conditions through a variety of methods in order to gain popular support. One of the main ways he did this was through his oratory skills but there were a number of other reasons such as _____

Look, listen and read the words of the statement

Signpost

One of the main reasons for Hitler's rise to power was indeed his oratory skills.

Then continue with your first PEEL paragraph!

As an essay you must tell me what each paragraph is going to be about before I read it. This is called a signpost. It is important for organising your work correctly and making your argument clear.

We must discuss this factor first because it is given to use in the question 2023 we can bring in other reasons why the league failed.

QB) Top tips for an 8 mark question:

Explain 2 effects of...

Example questions:

- Explain two effects of Allied bombing on Germany in WWII.
- Explain two effects on Germany of the work of Stresemann.
- Explain two effects on Germany of the Treaty of Versailles.
- Explain two effects on Germany of Hitler's Enabling Act.
- Explain two effects on Germany of Nazi censorship.
- Explain two effects on Germany of Stresemann's work to reorganise reparations payments.

- The question asks for 2 effects - do not write as many as you can
- You need two examples which are different ideas, that they do not overlap or cause one to happen because!
- There need to be divided into 2 separate paragraphs
- Your mark is split at 4/8 2 for each effect or less which are one single or obvious your paragraphs overlap!
- The question asks you to explain - do not write write conclude about Allied bombing/Stresemann/Hitler/Enabling Act. That is a description and there are only few marks awarded for description as it is a low level historical skill.
- Explain why that shows that you understand the effect of these things on Germany by explaining their consequences and outcomes.
- There is where the marks are awarded! An examiner will know if you are explaining or not by whether you are using the following words or phrases, if you aren't! therefore, as a result of, the consequence, the effect of this was, this led to, this resulted in, a knock on effect of this was, if you are not using these, that also is probably your description!
- You must include as much specific detail as possible to get those top marks down, names, dates, people, mentioned.

Paragraph 1 - Hitler's oratory skills

One key impact that prohibition had on America was that it opened the country up to increased levels of corruption and violence, which undermined the police and judicial system. In 1920's America, prohibition was poorly enforced because many of the agents wanted to prove themselves, and accepted bribes in order to turn a blind eye to the sale and distribution of alcohol both across borders and within states/cities. It is estimated that out of 4000 agents, roughly 400 were corrupt. In Chicago, where Al Capone and his gang dominated the market sales of alcohol, estimates suggest as many as 70% of officers accepted bribes to facilitate the illegal trade of alcohol. This meant that across America there was a rise in gang related activities, the impact of which was not limited to the sale and distribution of alcohol but also other illegal items such as drugs and weapons. As the market exploded with the demand for alcohol, gangs increased in number and size as many turned to bootlegging as a guaranteed way to make money. This in turn led to an increase in gang violence as rival gangs fought for territory to conduct their illegal trade. Consequently, American streets became more threatening and dangerous for civilians who were sometimes caught in the crossfire. Between 1920 and 1927 there were 130 murders in Chicago alone. This increased danger was compounded by a rapidly increasing trust in the police force who were facilitating the decline in safety rather than upholding it and prosecuting law breakers. Thus while the Volstead Act was initially enforced to protect its citizens, in effect it actually endangered the country even more.
